

1031 Tax Deferred Exchange

The Power To Protect, Grow And Diversify

Thanks to the IRC 1031, a properly structured exchange allows an investor to sell an investment property, and acquire a new property, and potentially defer all capital gain taxes.

“No gain or loss shall be recognized on the exchange of property held for productive use in a trade or business or for investment, if such property is exchanged solely for property of like-kind which is to be held either for productive use in a trade or business or for investment.”

The Power Of Flexibility

Pursuant to IRC 1031, capital gain deferral requires the exchange of “like-kind” relinquished property for other “like-kind” replacement property. Generally real property held for investment or real property used in a trade or business can be exchanged for other real property held for investment or real property used in a trade or business.

The Exchange Equation: 100% Tax Deferral

To fully defer all capital gain taxes, an Exchanger must meet two requirements:

1. Reinvest all exchange proceeds to acquire like-kind property.
2. Acquire like-kind property of equal or greater value.

Savvy investors know that Internal Revenue Code (IRC) Section 1031 provides a vehicle for deferring capital gain taxes while disposing of investment property. The United States Treasury Department has validated the services of a “qualified Intermediary” to complete a tax deferred exchange.
